>Where to start? That is always a good question, one that's never easily answered. But lets start from where people should normally start, the beginning.

It was a few months ago when it happened, although a ton of stuff has happened since then. It started when I woke up from a dream. I was at my school, not Hopes Peak mind you, but my own shabby middle school. I woke up in my homeroom. I nor my fellow classmates were surprised, for we have been pranked like this in the past. But this was different.

Yawwwwnnnnn "5 more minutes mum, I got a test today," I opened my eyes to find myself not in my room, but in my boring homeroom, where I was laying in the middle, in my own bed. "Huh?" I slap myself in the head, "Where am I? Wait no, why am I here?" I jump out of my bed on the the cold floor, then I walked over to find the windows were covered in some cold, bulky metal sheets. I then walk over to the board, it says, "Welcome to your new room!" in a hand writing I don't recognize.

After finding nothing else in the room, I then walk out to the hallway to look into the other rooms. It was right outside my door where I found Chloe about to open my door.

"Oh hello Chloe! What is going on here," I cheerfully say, with a little bit of panic in my voice.

"Hello John! Whats up? But no, I have no clue what is going on, all I know is that Me, You, David, Sarah, Allison, Zoe, Carter and Owen are in the 8th grade wing. The windows that lead outside are boarded up, and that all the whiteboards say Welcome to your new room," she replied.

"What are they doing?" I ask.

"Waking up still, they'll be out in a bit."

"Great, how about we explore the rest of the rooms?"

"You go on ahead, I'll stay here and wait for them."

I walk over to the 7th grade wing, which is a closed doorway away. Well it would be, if it wasn't locked. I then ran over to the stairway doors, those were locked as well. but it had a note on the door.

"Gather everyone at this door then it will unlock."

That seemed easy enough, but everyone had to wake up first, so I walked to the first open door. When i looked inside, I found my dude Owen in there. jumping out of his bed.

"Yo my dude, whats up?" I casually chat.

"Nothin' much, just a bit panicked about our situation." he casually replied.

"Nice dude, one thing," I then explain to him about the door lock.

"Alright fam, I'll be in here till we're ready to open that door."

I wave good bye and walk out the door. I walk to the next open room to find Allison. As soon as I realize its her room, I walk out. After what happened the week before that week, I was not gonna talk to her again.

I then walked over to Chloe's room to find her pacing back and forth.

"Did you see the note on the stairway door?"

"No, what did it say?"

"We have to gather everyone there to unlock it."

"Alright, call on me when everyone is up."

The next unlocked room was Carter's room. I walk inside to find him trying to fall back to sleep.

"Uh Carter, we kinda need you awake."

"Why?"

"Because the 8th grade wing doors are locked, and we need everyone there to unlock it."

"Wake me up when its time."

"You know me waking you up is impossible"

"fine, I'll walk around a bit."

After my pleasant conversation with Carter, I walk to the farthest room away, where i found Zoe's room. Before I get into the conversation, i want to talk about her room, it was off, the board said the same thing, in the same handwriting, but it was off, like how a cup that has moved one inch away would. I remember it faintly, but not enough to say what was off. But back to the conversation.

"Hello, have you seen my iPod anywhere? Or my sword in that case." she asked.

I quickly patted my pants to find that my phone and Vita had dissipated.

"I can tell that your stuff is missing as well. Maybe they'll just give it back after the prank is over." she noticed.

"Got me there, but anyway Zoe, after I check out all the other rooms, can i get you to follow me for a bit?" I asked.

"Sure, just knock on the door!"

I wave goodbye, to walk to the next door over. I find that room empty, to hop over next door to find Sarah and David making out. I knock on the door and shout,
>"Will you two lovebirds stop making out and help me for a second?"

"Why should we?" Sarah asks.

"That favor you owe me."

They get up and follow me as I call on everyone. We all walk over to the door that had the note on it, to find the note gone, I ask if anyone has taken it, they said no.

>A weird screeching noise came over the intercom, then a childish voice came over the intercom, "It looks like that the 8th grade has unlocked their door, will they be the first to make it to the gym?" We all stood their confused on why they wanted us in the gym, when the voice interrupted again, "they won't be if they just keep standing there!"
